Charity Tripp is given in the Soule Gen. as "dau of Francis and Desire of Tiverton" but according to the Tripp Gen., she was dau. of Francis and his 1st wife, Waitstill Chase, since she did not die until some time before 1756, when he married for the second time. Since Charity (Tripp) Sowle named a child Isaac, that might have been for Isaac Chase, her grandfather, father of Waitstill.

(66) John Babson Lane[7] Soule, D.D. Ph.D., (Moses[6] Moses[5] Barnabas[4] Moses[3] John[2] George[1]) born 4 April 1815. He married, 3 Sept. 1840, Mary L., daughter of Rev. Ethan and Mary Stevens, of Hallowell, Maine. She died 19 June 1848. He married for his second wife, 1 Aug. 1849, Caroline E. daughter of Seymour and Fidelia (Loomis) Gookins, of Terre Haute, Indiana, who is still living.

After the usual time spent on the homestead-farm in his youthful years, he prepared for college at Phillips Exeter Academy, under Dr. Benjamin Abbott, and was publicly pronounced by him the best classical scholar that came under his tuition during the fifty years of his Principalship, a compliment of which he may justly boast. He was graduated at Bowdoin College in 1840, and then began to study law in the office of Judge Emmons, of Hallowell, Maine. He was Preceptor of Hampton Academy, N.H., two years, and then removed to Indiana, in 1845, where, in 1848, he was appointed Professor of Greek and Belles Lettres in the Collegiate Institute of Terre Haute. He was editor of the Charlestown (Illinois) Courier, and afterwards of the Terre Haute Daily Express. He was afterwards ordained to the ministry, and had charge of some churches in Wisconsin and Indiana for some years.

He was elected Professor of Ancient Languages in Blackburn University, Illinois, in 1865, in which position he served with great success for eleven years. He is now pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Highland Park, Illinois, and Moderator of the Chicago Presbytery. He has received the honorary degree of Ph.D. (Highland Hall College, 1879), and D.D. (Blackburn University, 1880.) He is a man of fine literary abilities, pleasing as a writer of prose or poetry, and many of his short sketches and poems have been widely copied. These fugitive verses will soon be collected and published in book-form to gratify the urgent demands of the admirers of his writings. Their children:

Martha[8], b. 28 July 1841, d. 24 Aug. 1842; Franklin[8], b. 8 Feb. 1843, d. 4 Oct. 1844. By 2d wife: William[8], b. 18 May 1853; Charles[8], b. 21 June 1856; Frank[8], b. 17 Mar. 1858; Helen[8], b. 7 Apr. 1860.

INDIANA ROOM

.....(first and second generation).....copied in Indianapolis in 1892-3. Other data may be available by now (1920) as the Mayflower societies are finding material about the Pilgrims occasionally, but am not in reach of any large library, neither have I ever seen any of the Soule genealogies. They are probably of single lines.

PAMPHLET FILE

Rev. G. T. Ridlon sen. of Portland, Maine, an old genealogist of 40 years experience began gathering data for a "complite" (?) back to Tiverton, R. I. As have NOT HEARD FROM HIM SINCE ABOUT 1916 I THINK THE WAR MUST HAVE STOPPED IT OR HE DIED. FOLLOWING IS OUR DESCENT FROM GEORGE (1) AS HE THOUGHT IT WAS:

1st Generation - George Soule of Mayflower and wife, Mary Bicket (Beckett)
2nd " George m. Deborah---See New England Register
3rd " William m. Hannah Soule
4th " William m. RACHEL ALLEN - Never left Tiverton.
5th " Joseph m. Charity Tripp Nov. 5, 1763 (dau. of Francis and Desire Tripp of Dartmouth)

(Joseph the 5th) This couple we all know of my Grandfather & his brothers and sisters from on their farm at Broadalbin, N.J. (NY) (Maybe not the younger ones.) My grandfather's brother, Adam W. A. Sowle also of Angola, Indiana told me in 1876 that we were descended from a Mayflower Ancestor; that he was a small, wiry man, very strong and quick; not a vig man as many of the Sowles he knew. That this George Soule was just a young fellow but when the Indians tried feats of strength that George could throw them every time, and when they were asked to wrestle with older ones they said "no, if the boy can do that what could the men do?". G.uncle Adam told me on questioning, that it was his "great grandfather Sowle who told him tales of George of the Mayflower" and that "he had it from those before him, this man lived in Tiverton, Rhode Island and never left there", but uncle could not be sure of his given name. I tried to have him say it was Joseph, as his father's name was Joseph (6) and his grandfather's name was Joseph (5) but he was positive against it, and said that his name was WILLIAM. So when in 1916 Mr. Ridlon said that a WILLIAM was the father of Joseph (5) I believe he was right. Particularly as Joseph 5th's first child was named William and so far he (Ridlon) had not found that name in any other line, and William (4) is known to have gone to Tiverton. William (4) married Rachel Allen.
Greatuncle Adam told me his Great grandfather of Tiverton lived to be a very old man and told him these tales when a boy. Another time when trying to find name of Joseph 5th's wife he said "grandmother Rachel" as by papers in family it was found her name was Charity, I think the grandmother Rachel he had in his memory was his great grandmother, as he had no grandmother otherwise whose name was Rachel. He did not know anything about the name of his grandmother Allen.

all of which is, I believe, published?

Most, if not all, of above children born in Montgomery County, N.Y. The family removed to Wayne County, Ohio for about 4 years then to Steuben County, Indiana in 1839, all buying land except Adam W. A. who did not come for a number of years, they settled north a couple miles of present town of Angola. Francis (T) buying 400 acres. Their settlement was called Sowle Settlement; the Cemetery was on the farm of Joseph Sowle the father; and relatives bury their dead there still (1921) His home was a preaching place for a number of years, until Sowle Settlement School house was built.

(no birth dates in Soule Gen.)

There are several William Soules of about the same age, and there is a question as to whether the WILLIAM Above was the father of Joseph, born Dartmouth, 1733, who married Charity Tripp, 1763, as given in the Soule Gen. The compiler gives this Joseph as the son of William's first wife, Jemima Baker, and born 1733, then puts him in the list of the second wife's children. There was another Joseph, born in Dartmouth in 1733, son of William (4) (William 3, George 2, 1) Soule, and they may well be confused. As there is almost nothing in the records about Sylvanus (3) Soule I feel that the 3rd and 4th generations are doubtful, as well as Joseph (5). The arguments in the genealogy are not convincing.

(As given in the Soule Gen.)-

Joseph (5) Sowle, b Dartmouth 1 Sept., 1733, mar. in Tiverton, R.I. 8 Nov. (or Dec. probably one is intention) 1763, Charity Tripp, b. Dartmouth 4 Jan. 1747. Joseph (5) is called in the Soule Gen. "reputed son" of the William (4 as given above. Died when was about 87. Letters of Admins. 1822. Widow's estate settled 1835. He rem. to Broadalbin, Fulton Co., N.Y. in 1802, having lived before that in Tiverton, R.I.

Charity Tripp is given in the Soule Gen. as "dau of Francis and Desire of Tiverton" but according to the Tripp Gen., she was dau. of Francis and his 1st wife, Waitstill Chase, since she did not die until some time before 1756, when he married for the second time. Since Charity (Tripp) Sowle named a child Isaac, that might have been for Isaac Chase, her grandfather, father of Waitstill.

Indiana State Library reports in the Daily Wabsh Express August 25, 1851 tha t Donaldson announces that J.B.L.Soule and Isaac Brown are the new associates. Soule is in charge of the editorial department, Brown of the composing room, while Donaldson handles the finanical matters.

"Go West,young man" artical in the Terre Haute,Indiana Express (1851)

Familiar quotations - revised edition in 1937 11th edition Little,Brown & Co Boston

note on page 505 of the above mentioned edition ;

"Horace Greely (1811 - 1872) was att racted by the expression, and used it in ane editorial on the New York Tribune. As the saying,"Go West,young man and grow with the country" gained popularity,Gr ely printed Soule's article ,to show the source of his inspiration.

Many men have stated the advice was given them by Greely.Among these was William S..Venity (1837 - 1934) who said Greely had given him this advice in 1859.

After Donaldson had run the Express for nearl y two tears,it was purchased and passed into the hands of J.B.L.Soule November 9,1853.

The following is some of the quotations from various news journals concerning Mr.Soule:

Mr.Soule is already favorably known as an editor (Wabash Courier)

Mr.Soule is one of the best writers in the west(Greencastle Sentinel)

Mr.Soule in his "bow editorial" sets forth clearly his future course(---Tribune)

Mr. Soule being talented and experienced as an editor(Vincennes Gazette)

Mr.Soule ranks among the first writers of the day(Danville,Ill.Citizen)

June 28,1854,Soule ends his service with the Express to return to the Charleston Courier.

Dear Mr. Markle:

As you requested in your letter of April 7, we are enclosing the 1820 and 1830 census records of the Soules with the variations in spelling.

As you probably know, it is not our policy to check the microfilmed and unindexed copies of the later Indiana censuses, 1840-1880. However, this once we made an exception and examined Lost Creek Township, Vigo County, 1850, for any Soules. The only person we found of this surname in this township, was a Lemuel Soles.

We are sorry that we were unable to locate any more census references to this family, but perhaps a more thorough search of the entire county would be helpful. We deeply regret, Mr. Markle, that we cannot engage in such extensive research.

Sincerely yours,

Soule Family

Of the approximately 250,000 soldiers who fought in the American Revolution, at least 33 had a direct connection with the early history of Vigo County. From Connecticut, New Jersey, New York, Virginia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Massachusetts they came.

They were pretty well divided as to New England and the South, so early Vigo County had a Yankee twang as well as a Southern drawl. At least three of the men were born in the Old Country, in Scotland, Ireland and England. The birthplace of some of the early settlers is unknown.

Family tradition has it that WILLIAM BILDAD SOULE was a drummer boy during the Revolutionary War. He was born Sept. 17, 1766 in Pembroke, Mass., and died Sept. 9, 1820, in Vigo County, Ind.

Married in New York State in the 1790's, Soule's wife, Jemima Butler, was born Sept. 7, 1773 in Massachusetts and died in Vigo County in 1832-33.

For many years, descendants of this man have tried to prove his military service in the Revolutionary War for eligibility in Sons of the American Revolution and Daughters of the American Revolution, but without success. The main stumbling block was the fact that they could not prove that William Soule and Bildad Soule were the same person. The name change was understandable in pioneer Hoosier land, and the Biblical "Bildad" became "Bill" or officially "William" in all the early land and other records here.

To make it even more confusing about this alleged drummer boy, county histories have conflicting information. One local source states that William and Almira (Baker) Soules, native of New York, came to Vigo County and settled in Harrison Township in 1816-17 with their grown sons and daughters. This would prove to be Charles William Soules (1796-1857) and Almira Baker Soules (1800-42). Another source states that William Sulls was one of the early settlers of the 1820's in Harris Harrison township.

A biographical sketch of Warren Soules states that he was the son of William Soules, a Revolutionary War soldier. These statements in old county histories are never taken for fact, but only as clues. After all, the biographees paid handsomely for having their flattering life stories printed in the subscription book.

Souls is not listed in O'Byrne's Roster, but there are two of the name listed in the DAR Patriot Index. One was a private from Massachusetts, born 1759, died 1826, and married to a Miss Sampson; the other was a soldier from Massachusetts, born 1739, died 1777, and married to a Miss Briggs. Obviously, these men don't match up with the dates for Bildad.

Local records show a William Souls established his cattle mark in the Vigo County courthouse estray records in 1818, and again in 1822. He sold twenty acres of land in the southeast quarter of Section 14, Township 12, Range 9, to his daughter, Elenor Garber, prior to his death. She had the distinction of being Vigo County's first divorcee.

The estate of William Souls was entered in the October, 1821 term of court. Where is the Revolutionary soldier Bildad Soule buried? Family records indicate he was not buried in a family graveyard anyplace near the little village of Terre Haute. The family never established its own cemetery, and used the public burying ground known as Old Indian Orchard located on the river bank where the Pillsbury plant's visitor parking lot is now.

A wooden marker was dedicated with suitable ceremonies July 4, 1976 for this veteran during the Bicentennial weekend here.

In July, 1974, the Soule Kindred in America held their Indiana reunion here and visited the grave of William Soule in Woodlawn Cemetery. One local newspaper noted that "since the war began in 1776, young Soule as per his birthdate must have been little more than ten years of age when he played for the line of march."

An angled photograph of the weathered tombstone in Woodlawn shows a death date of Oct. 10, 1857, which proves this is the grave of Charles William Soules, not the Revolutionary soldier. To make it even more confusing, Woodlawn Cemetery records show the lot was purchased by a William Soules in 1862. Other burials in the family plot were made in 1882, 1893 and 1900. Further information on this veteran would certainly be helpful.

AMERICAN'S CREED

I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people, whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic, a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable, established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity, for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.

I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it, to support its Constitution, to obey its laws, to respect its Flag, and to defend it against all enemies.

daughter of James C. and Sarah F. (Nutgrass) Beatty, the father having been born near Rockville, Indiana, the representative of a very old family. Nine children were born to James C. Beatty and wife, namely: Laura E., wife of the subject; Mildred, Rosette and Charles are all deceased; Mrs. Emma Lang; Mrs. Cora Barnes lives at Raccoon, Indiana; Edward, Joe and George. Three children have been born to Mr. and Mrs. Bryant, namely: Blanche May married D. A. Pence and they have one son, Maurice; Otto H. is at home; Ethel married Walter Clark.

ALONZO SOULES.

The farming element of Parke county has an able exponent in Alonzo Soules, a man who has learned the art of husbandry not from an agricultural college or from perusing agricultural and horticultural journals, but by practical experience, being by nature a close observer and a persistent worker, and he has therefore succeeded where, perhaps, others would have failed.

Mr. Soules is the owner of a productive and well-improved place of seventy-five acres on the Mecca and Rockville road, about a mile and a half southwest of Rockville, in Adams township. He was born March 1, 1855, near Terre Haute, in Vigo county, Indiana, and is the son of Lemuel B. and Anna J. MacKenzie. The father was born and reared in Vigo county on his father's farm, near the edge of the city limits of Terre Haute. His father, William Soules, came from the north of Ireland and settled in Vigo county, having first remained a while in Ohio, from which state he moved on to the vicinity of Terre Haute. His son, Samuel Soules, took up eighty acres early in life, started in for himself and made a success.

Alonzo Soules was educated in the old log schoolhouse near his home, and he worked on the farm during the vacation months. At the age of twenty years he purchased a piece of land from his father, and had a small farm, which he later sold, after which he came to Adams township, Parke county, about nine years ago, and bought land, and here he has continued to reside and develop a good farm and make a good living, laying by all the while for his old age.

Mr. Soules was married on November 1, 1875, to Josephine Kitchell, daughter of Albert and Nancy (Parmer) Kitchell. Her father came from Owen county, Indiana, from which he removed to Coles county, Illinois, where he followed farming and carpentering, and there he and his wife both died. The subject's wife was reared there and received her education in the common schools.

Four children have been born to Mr. and Mrs. Soules, namely: Frank, who married in Texas, has three children, Aaron, Raymond and Ovid; Norah, wife of Ovid Mason, are both deceased, leaving one child, Leo, who lives with the subject and is attending school; George Soules is deceased; Candissa is also deceased. Mrs. Soules died March 9, 1912, and Mr. Soules married, on October 3, 1912, Mrs. Minnie Thompson, of Parke county.

Mr. Soules is a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and the family are Methodists. He was at one time supervisor and road overseer in Vigo county. Politically, he is a Republican.

PERCY SEYBOLD.

One of the progressive young farmers of the vicinity of Rockville and a representative of one of Parke county's highly honored families is Percy Seybold, who has had the privilege, not vouchsafed to many of us, of spending his life on the old home place. This is a privilege which he appreciates as well as he should, for there is a charm about the home of our childhood which we never find elsewhere. Useless to say that he is keeping the old farm in excellent condition, rotating his crops and employing such other scientific methods of farming as are calculated to preserve the original fertility and strength of the soil, which he is managing for the heirs.

Mr. Seybold was born on the farm he now occupies, in Adams township, Parke county, Indiana, September 1, 1887, and is a son of Jasper L. and Margaret (Neet) Seybold. The father was also born on this farm and lived here all of his life, becoming one of the leading general farmers of the locality. He received his education in the neighboring schools, and early in life devoted his attention exclusively to general farming and stock raising. This place was settled by the paternal grandfather of the subject in a very early day when the country round about was sparsely settled and little improved and thus the Seybold family has been well known here for many decades.

Four children were born to Jasper Seybold and wife, namely: Nettie is the wife of Owen Swain, and they have one child, Harriet Evelyn Swain; Roscoe lives in Pennsylvania and is a graduate of Purdue University, being an electrical engineer; Percy, of this review, and Glaydis.

Percy Seybold, after passing through the local public schools, took an agricultural course at Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana. He returned

Terre Haute Weekly Gazette Nov. 16, 1882

"Sister Almira B. Soules departed this life Thursday evening, November 9th 1882, aged 82 years, two months and 8 days. The deceased was one of the oldest citizens of Vigo County.

She was born in the year 1800, in Warren, Massachusetts. She removed at the age of six years, with her parents to Naples, New York, where she received her education, and remained there until whe was 18 years of age, when she again removed with her parents to Terre Haute, Ind., when it was but in its infancy. She has lived to see our great city grow from a very small village to the beautiful and flourishing city it now is. She lived to see her children one by one drop their golden sheaf till nearly all are gone before her. She was married to William Soules in the year 1820; they lived together 37 years when she was left a widow. She was the mother of 13 children, of hwom six survive her; three sons and three daughters. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Alfred Kummer, and were attended by many neighbors and friends.

She was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in the year 1842 of which she has ever remained a true christian and member for forty years. She has been heard to pray for each and every one of her family that they may meet her in that heavenly land, where parting will be no more.

We have laid her to rest. - None knew her but to love her. * None named her but to praise."

OBITUARY

" Notice of the death and funeral of the Rev. J. F. Soule has been published in the Express. The funeral services were held Saturday, April 2, at the Sugar Grove school house, near the late residence of the deceased. The Rev. M. Allen officiated, and his Scripture reading and remarks were very appropriate indeed. He gave a short biographical sketch of the deceased, about as follows:

Mr. Soule was born in Erie County, N.Y., April 7, 1827; was educated at Ann Arbor, Michigan: married at Nashua, New Hampshire, in Crawford County, Ohio, and subsequently removed to Newark, Ohio. August 30, 1864, he enlisted in the service of the U. S., and joined the 179th regiment of Ohio Volunteers to assist in putting down the rebellion; was promoted to a second lieutenant, and was honorably discharged from service June 17, 1865, at Nashville, Tennessee. In 1866, he removed with his wife to Vigo County, Indiana, and purchased twenty acres of ground on Fruit Ridge, ~~ten~~ three miles from the city, built him a house and commenced the business of a nursery man, fruit raising, and horticulturist in general.

In all that appertained to that sphere of life, Mr. Soule worked hard, and spared himself no fatigue or exposure. During the last eight or ten years he added to his other laudable employments that of preaching the gospel, being licensed to preach by the Congregational Assodiation of Indiana. For the last two years, he preached at stated times, at the Congregational church located some six miles from Terre Haute on the west side of the river. His ministry there was highly appreciated. Only about four weeks ago he supplied the pulpit of the First Congregational Church of Terre Haute, and those who heard him will testify to hearing from him very able and interesting discourses. On the last Sabbath of this supply he was laboring under the affliction of a bad cold, and it was but a few days after that he was obliged to confine himself to his own home. He was confined to bed but a few days. The messenger found him fully prepared for his summons. Death had no terrors for him, for his hope was firmly anchored on the Rock Christ Jesus.

A good and useful citizen has gone to his rest. His citizenship in Vigo County has been one of honor to himself, of more than ordinary benefit to society and the Church. As a member of the Terre Haute Horticultural Society, and an almost regular attendant, all the membership will testify to his valuable contributions in essays, reports, and scientific facts. His general and scientific knowledge in the line of horticulture was much beyond that of a mere amateur. The society will ever cherish a remembrance of his excellent Christian virtues and his faithfulness and example in all the walks of life."

PAMPHLET FILE

The Soule Family.

One of the early arrivals was the founder of the Soule family here about whom there is some mystery. Among the passengers one the famous Mayflower was the head of the family in America and in Ridlon's history of the family we find Moses Soule, a revolutionary soldier, born in 1738 who married Eleanor Williams. They had a son Charles Williams and a daughter, Eleanor, who married Origen Brigham, and a son, Bildad, born 1766, who was also a drummer boy in the Revolution. The history says of Bildad, "of whom more later" and then failed to add anything.

However, William Soules who was born 1766 and died here in 1820 had married Jemima Butler. Among their children were two sons, Charles William and Origen Brigham and a daughter, Eleanor, who married Peter Garber. Surely it is more than a coincidence that Bildad's mother was named Eleanor Williams, that he had a sister, Eleanor, who married Origen Brigham and a brother named Charles William while our William Soules named one son, Charles William, and another Origen Brigham and a daughter, Eleanor.

Th latter, Eleanor Soule Garber sued for divorce at the first term of the Vigo Circuit Court and her complaint gives her father's name as ..... Soule." Evidently, when asked by the attorney her father's name, she gave it as "Bill" and when the attorney suggested "William" she denied it and insisted his name was "Bill" which would identify him as Bildad. As there seemed to be some question the name was left blank in the complaint. Surely after all these years we can pardon a man name Bildad for calling himself Bill. This is the origin of the Soule family in Vigo county.
